

WHITE LABEL SITES

NakedSword - Largest collection - but does not have all studios/ categories/ sex acts enabled that exist in the database. Contracts with studios may have expired - relationship ended, a particular theme is not for a gay audience - a variety of things could affect availability. I believe that all of that major control of what we can display is managed by aebn. That decision process and what specifically does "FSG Titles" encompass - is the level up from this list - and we are working on getting specifics.

 This Admin allows you to manage all of the sites and tours that are set up in NATS, along with various other options regarding those sites.

NATS is a tour-based program, meaning that statistics for your programs, as well as most essential settings, are located in the tour options as opposed to the site options. Tours are pages that offer sample content for your sites.

Click the "Add a Site" tab at the top of the page to setup a new site in NATS. Once you add a new site, you can create a tour by clicking the  action icon. The "Edit Site Tour" drop-down menus let you choose a tour to edit. For more information on sites in NATS, please see our NATS4 Sites wiki article . Our NATS4 Sites Admin wiki article provides more information on setting up tours in NATS.

Thanks Bryan. I think I can work with some of these collections being null, but the ones you make when you enter some of our NS Originals as single scene movies that we base all of our systems off of (our systems are all scene based). Is this relatively pain-free? Please let me know. Because I think any workarounds I could

And I might run into other difficulties when trying to import this data or override amounts to extending existing AEBN data rather than replacing content wholely missing but the only functional data we're getting here is the movie title and

Hi Fenderson,

The no-meta-data-required plan came out of a conversation with Mike and Andrew regarding Breaking Glass content. Since this was content we never intended to put up on this content do not match the current categorization scheme we have, and that if overridden, that we would only attach the bare minimum of information required and other meta-data in Forge only.

I have set the orientation=Gay, but other things like Stars/Studios/Series/Scene are on the side.

Hi Bryan,

I just did a sport check of the first couple of MovieIDs you provided in your list and read them in the ContentAPI, but they don't pass the rules I've got coded into the system.

Those rules again:

- The title must be in partition 4
- The orientation must be 'gay'

The results of my spot check show only partial information provided for each movie including 'orientation'. But they do show as partitionID 4.

Here is a representative example of the movies in your list:

Any new movie is automatically offline when it flows into Forge from AEBN.

So we have to manually enable it, give it publication dates etc, custom description if needed, etc. This would be the best time to mark a movie as Risky.

There is no system in place to mark Studios or Themes or Sex Acts as risky - only movies. But I can manually take a list of StudioIDs, CategoryIDs and SexActIDs and run custom updates on the database to mark those movies as risky - but yeah, only the movies we have right now. It won't affect new movies that flow into the system.

ICONS on banners:::

Film strip - (backend: links to the admin movie info page | frontend automatically links to the movie info page on the frontend)

you can enter the "movieID" in that field and it will automatically write the link to the banner in the database - link it on the frontend - speeds up the banner entry process and cuts down on mistakes when linking banners

NoFilmStrip - we can also link banners to any url - internal or external - no icon for that

Lock (does not link)- if it is set with property exclusivity - https://forge.nakedsword.com/banners/id/1194/edit

Exclusive to the following Properties: or Excluded from the following Properties:

Schedule (no link) -

https://forge.nakedsword.com/banners/id/1200/edit

the date is entered by hand on the "banner edit page" - lets us auto-publish and remove banners based on date -

Checkmark - means it is published - and available for the banner rotator - you can sort by published and non - on the main banner page - allows us to upload a number of banners to be used later and unpublish older version without deleting them
